Dear agents,

Picture now, two dashing travelers appear in your town with an offer - to cook for you, in exchange for a story.

This is what we did all across the world and the result was beyond anything we could have imagined - a collection of 50 stories, 50 recipes and the most adventurous cookbook ever written. The Vagabond Cookbook is the product of this modern odyssey, spanning 35 countries and nearly 7 years.

It all began with the meeting of two young travelers - a storyteller and a cook, who collided outside a bookshop in Paris and decided to chase their dreams to the end of the earth together. That's us. Cameron and Guglielmo. We decided to travel to Singapore together without flying, and that was just the beginning.

Surviving our journey together was truly a miracle. Like Kitchen Confidential, Into the Wild or Shantaram our account reads like a piece of fiction too marvelous to be believed. So it's a good thing we brought back proof : A set of 5 hard drives was carried throughout the entire trip with countless photographs and hours of footage inside. Somehow they all made it in one piece, filling our book with authentic and spellbinding imagery. Think Anthony Bourdain meets Humans of New York.

The real proof however lives in the memories of the people that we met along the way. Mountain guides, pilgrims, rebels, princes and one heroic chicken farmer. We often put our lives in their hands, the hands of complete strangers, and in return they gave us the story of a lifetime. A story that belongs in the bookshop we once met in front of.

There is much more where this came from. Our first film about the journey is hitting festivals this Summer, we are still in our 30's and we have more than a few ideas about how to reignite our world-wide network. With a proper team behind us, there's no telling what we can accomplish. So if you enjoy traveling, meeting incredible people and eating phenomenal food we hope you will be on board.

Sincerely yours,

Cameron Starr & Guglielmo Sartor
